WHAT'S GOING ON AT GRAMMAR CHIC, INC.

I am very happy to say that business at Grammar Chic is going well and I have to thank each and every one of my clients for their continued loyalty and wonderful support. I appreciate your business as I could not do it without each of you. Thanks.

In March, there are many announcements that I want to make everyone aware of because I am so excited about them myself.

I am happy to announce that I have been working hand-in-hand with Phil Vera at EDGE Publishing Company in Manassas, Virginia. I was introduced to Phil last summer by a mutual friend. At that point in time Phil had a project, a manuscript by the name of Feather Merchant, a WWII memoir, and he asked me for help with editing and formatting. From there, the relationship developed and I am happy to say that Phil and I have been able to expand EDGE's catalogue through the acceptance of the work of many talented authors that I have had the privilege of working with. I am very excited about what 2010 holds for all involved!

I would like to congratulate Gretchen Zimmer of Zimmer Author Works on the publication of her first children's book, Accepting Apples. Gretchen has been a friend of mine for a while, so I was very excited when she approached me to ask for my help with the publishing process. Together, and with the help of fantastic illustrator Ryan Durney and graphic designer Sadie Nezich of Concord Consulting & Services LLC, we were able to produce a fantastic and beautiful book that is due out this month. The book will be released by EDGE Publishing Company and we are looking forward to working on and releasing many more books in the Seasonal Stories for Life Series from Gretchen.

I would like to welcome author C.A. Milson (Chris) to the Grammar Chic family. Chris is an Australian horror writer, currently living in Russia and is the author of the horror novel, The Chosen: Rise of the Darkness. I formed a relationship with Chris in early 2009 and it was towards the end of the year that he and I reconnected and started to work on several projects together. His book is going to be re-issued by EDGE Publishing in the United States very soon and will be found on the bookshelves of your local bookstore this Spring.

Another round of congratulations goes out to author Marc Douglas, who just had two titles, Soon and Slingshot, accepted by EDGE Publishing Company. I had the pleasure of editing both of these books. Soon is an exciting thriller that is reminiscent of Dean Koontz and Slingshot is an exciting sci-fi novel that hits pretty close to home with the current level of "corporate control" tightening its grip in the country and in the world. Look for his books this Summer.

Congratulations to each of these incredible authors. I cannot wait to hold your books in my hands and see what you all come up with next!

Best Wishes and Happy Writing!

EDGE PUBLISHING OPENS DOOR TO CHINESE BOOK MARKET

There is no denying that the Asian book market is immense and that means BILLIONS of potential readers. EDGE Publishing Company, with the help of Amanda Clark, recently penned an agreement with Minnesota-based, Chinese literary agency, C.A. Link. The agency will be working to promote and sell the work of EDGE Publishing clients to Chinese publishing companies. The work of C.A. Milson, Gretchen Zimmer and Bill Greenwell is currently in the book proposal stage at C.A. Link. Upon the successful sale of their books to a China-based publisher, EDGE authors will see their work marketed to China, Thailand, Vietnam, Indonesia, and several other Asian countries. Interestingly enough, C.A. Link is the same literary agency that sold Harry Potter to China. Talk about selling power!
